As the members of Incinerator group, which is composed by Lonza Engineering, Dumag, Wehrle Werk, Protego Meidinger and Raschka, and in order to know each other better, Keynes and I were sent to Vienna for training on Burner of Dumag.

The man who treated us on white shirt below is Mr. Haberfelner, head of engineering of Dumag, a kind, generous and knowledgeable gentleman. He has always answered our various questions from professional questions to ordinary living problems such as traveling and eating problems. We accommodated in a hotel called Okel just 10 minutes away from Dumag factory, even so, Mr. Haberfelner insisted on picking us up every day by himself.

The training course focused on commissioning of Dumag burner. After four days of training, we have been entitled to commission and service to Dumag burner system.
Besides training, of course we had a free chance to go around Vienna, a well-known musical capital. Wherever you go, music always lingers in your mind. Concert and opera, as two demonstrating patterns of music stage in various palaces and showplaces every day.

When I walked on Vienna street, I felt so relaxed and comfortable, it was not only because the air in Vienna was very clear, but also the atmosphere there and the amazing buildings which were built more than hundreds years ago. Easygoing people came from all around the world for vacation here, no hurry. Everything is just so fantastic.

Troubles? Yes, I had some troubles in language and transportation. Before my food was set on the table, I didn’t know what I had ordered. The ticket regulations for transportation in Vienna is strange for me, either, it is greatly different from China, even from Switzerland. Therefore, remind my advice please study some German especially some vocabulary about food, and transportation in Vienna before you travel there.